Charley Beck presents new name, new album, with CD release

OTTAWA -- Up-and-coming rock artist Charley Beck (née Sarah Sedgman) is set to launch her new name and new album, Friday, Jan. 25 at Barrymore's Music Hall. The change from Sarah Sedgman to Charley Beck is a nod to the fresh image captured on Beck's full-length release, "Life's Pleasures?," recorded over the last year at Ottawa's Distortion Studios. Backed by her band, Beck will rock the stage with her new material and some old favourites.

Charley Beck's CD release comes on the heels of recent media appearances that include Breakfast on the NewRO and the Ottawa Regional Cancer Telethon. Performances alongside big-name acts at the 2001 Tulip Festival and Fresh Fest 2000 have helped Beck establish a loyal local following, and a rising popularity.
